ST CLARE'S
OXFORD

St Clare's was founded in 1953 by two remarkable women: Anne Dreydel and Pamela Morris. Their motivation for establishing an international college aligns with our mission today which is to 'advance international education and understanding'.

It is doubtful whether the founders could have anticipated how successful the college would become. The first lessons were held in a single room in a house in Lathbury Road. Today, we own 25 buildings in the beautiful North Oxford area.

We offer a unique educational experience to students and teachers from over 40 countries. In addition to providing a first-class academic education, we encourage students to be thoughtful, enquiring, independent learners with a zest for life.
